Annual Report On State Community Colleges

Approximately 96 percent of Virginia's community college students are Virginians, and the majority of these live at home and commute an average of 10 miles one-way to college, according to the latest Virginia Community College System Annual Report.

These facts were based on a survey of the 35,544 students enrolled during the 1971 fall quarter. The survey also shows that 75 to 80 percent of the Virginia community college students work full and part-time, that 30 percent are veterans receiving educational benefits, that generally they are first-generation college students with almost half from homes where the father has less than a high school education.

For the academic 1971-72 year, the Annual Report states that 52,143 different students were enrolled at 20 community colleges, an increase of 31 percent over 1970-71. The colleges presented 3,001 awards (up 37 percent over 1970-71), of which 69 percent were Associate in Applied Science Degrees, Diplomas, and Certificates in occupational-technical curricula, 31 percent Associate in Arts or Science Degrees in college transfer programs.

Also noted in the report: 83 percent of the approximately 1,300 faculty in the System in 1971-72 held master's degrees or above while nearly 11% had degrees above the master's level.

The System's 1971-72 Annual Report spotlights the activities at the 23 community colleges. A random look at some individual colleges discovers that Northern Virginia remains the fourth largest higher educational institution in the State with a 1971 fall quarter enrollment of 12,043; for the year, the college enrolled 18,662 different students and served an additional 10,319 individuals through community service programs.

Wytheville and Paul D. Camp began taking classes to inmates at two state correctional farms; approximately 70 individuals were enrolled in the classes during the year.

Approval was received by Southwest Virginia and Virginia Highlands to offer the Community College System's first cooperative nursing program, an Associate in Applied Science Degree curriculum initiated in the fall of 1972.

Development of the three newest community colleges, as well as four additional campuses, was on target and all opened for classes in the 1972 fall quarter. Located in regions previously not served by a community college are Mountain Empire, Big Stone Gap; Piedmont Virginia, Charlottesville; and the 23rd community college, J. Sargeant Reynolds, Richmond.

Additional campuses opening in the fall included Rappahannock's North Campus at Warsaw, and Northern Virginia's Loudoun, Manassas, and Woodbridge Campuses, all now operating in existing community facilities.

College Chosen As Site For Boys' State

Lynchburg College has been chosen as the site of the 1973 American Legion Boys' State, a project of the Americanism sponsored by the American Legion, Department of Virginia, in cooperation with other civic and patriotic clubs and organizations. The program will be held on the LC campus June 17 through June 23.

This will be the first time that the program has been held at a private college. During its 31 year history, it has been held only at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University and The College of William and Mary. W. Glen Hardin of Roanoke, director of Boys' State, said that Lynchburg College was selected in an effort by the board of directors of the program to move around the state. He added that the board hopes to be able to stage the program at a different area of the state every two or three years.

Boys' State, which has been called "A Political Game With A Citizenship Aim," was founded in 1939 by the late Judge Charles W. Crush. The program, which was a practical experiment in teaching the basic principles of self-government to high school students, was held on the campus of Virginia Polytechnic Institute. There were 218 delegates from across the state at the first Boys' State.

A Boys' State program has been held every year, except during World War II.

Boys' State was held at VPI until 1964 when it was held at The College of William and Mary. The program has been held in Williamsburg each year since 1964.

A total of 14,391 boys have attended Boys' State since it was begun.

Delegates are selected from members of the junior classes at senior high schools on the basis of character, leadership ability, scholastic record, loyalty as an American citizen, intelligence and desire to serve his fellowmen.

Central Va. TBRD Assoc. Hears Reports, Plans Program

Mrs. James C. Rea, Jr., a former chairman of the Central Virginia Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association (CVTRDA), is its representative with the state association (VTRDA) on the program development committee. She was one of the speakers at the quarterly board meeting of CVTRDA held at the courthouse in January.

She stated the committee acts as a bridge between the local and state associations to insure that local needs are understood, local unit programneeds evaluated, and to approve them. It also sets up local programs best suited to their areas.

Each local unit sends in its most wanted needs. Those most emphasized, she continued, were: scholarships for nurses, Life and Breath Information Centers, a directory of health and welfare agencies for cooperation with health departments, medical advisory committees, inservice programs for public health nurses, health programs, and use of more volunteers.

Pilot Project

The CVTRDA was again chosen for a pilot project on the Life and Breath Information Center. This program involves other agencies and acts as a clearing house for persons with problems, who are uncertain about whom to approach. It will not be a 24 hour service in the beginning as the association is not qualified for it.

Volunteers could benefit the community by attending orientation classes, collecting information, and answering the phone, thus helping those needing it and directing them in the right direction.

A program of work will come from the program committee, the CVTRDA will decide what it wants to do and what goal it wishes to attain in 1973-74.Many of board and volunteers will be needed to put these projects into operation, Mrs. Rea emphasized.

Larry E. Crumbliss, regional program director, commended Mrs. Emma G. Anthony, executive director of the CVTRDA saying her work was being carried out so well that the state program of work was set-up according to her program.

Request A Seminar

Mrs. Anthony told something of the Nursing Seminar held in Lynchburg in November and sponsored by the local association and district III, Virginia Nurses Association. The largest program of its kind put on by a local association, it was geared for public health nurses and was entitled "Newer Concepts of Respiratory Care." The CVTRDA has been requested to hold another seminar of this kind next year at Southside Community Hospital and this has been included in the program of work for 1973-74.

Mrs. Rea presented a key ring bearing a cheerful harvest cross to the 12 chairman present in recognition of their outstanding health education program which they carried on during the year in their respective areas and also in the Christmas Seal campaign. Thes e were; Mrs. Patricia Brown, Amelia; the Rev. R.Q. Lawing, Appomattox; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Gooden, Buckingham; Archie F. Monroe, Campbell; Mrs. Arnethe Brown, Cumberland; Mr. and Mrs. Collier, Nottoway; Mrs. William Reed, Prince Edward, representing Mrs. J. B. Pervall; and the Rev. and Mrs. Haywood Watkins, Lunenburg.

Not present to receive their rings were: Mrs. Nanette Vaughter, Nottoway; Mr. and Mrs. Essex Moseley, Charlotte; Carl Hutcherson, Lynchburg; the Rev. Johnny Paige; Mrs. Ada Palmer, Amherst.

It would be impossible for me to thank my many friends and members of my family individually for their generous gifts and kind remembrances in celebration of my ninetyfirst birthday on Feb. 26th. In fact, it was a long week-end celebration as friends began to call, send cards, flowers and gifts and visited me from Friday, the 23rd. through the 26th. I enjoyed every minute of it and am now taking time to read and enjoy each of the ninety-one cards I received. To each of you I wish to express my appreciation and hope that you will live and enjoy a long life as I have.

Sincerely,
Natalie C. Robertson
